WOODROW WILSON

Nineteen Forty-four

PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASS OF THE
WOODROW WILSON HIGH SCHOOL
WASHINGTON, D. C.

The day of our country's life has but broadened into morning. . . . Put the harness of the present on. Lift your eyes to the great tracts of life yet to be conquered in the interests of righteous peace, of that prosperity which lives in a people's hearts and outlasts all wars and errors of men. Come, let us be comrades and soldiers yet to serve our fellow men in quiet counsel, where the blare of trumpets is neither heard nor heeded and where the things are done which make blessed the nations of the world in peace and righteousness and love.

WOODROW WILSON
Address at Gettysburg
July 4, 1913

Foreword

LIFE OFFERS a stern challenge to the youth of today—the challenge to conquer the forces of barbarism and destruction which have set nation against nation and race against race; the challenge so to organize the world that peace may once more be secure; the challenge to insure for every man the liberties which are his birthright.

We accept this challenge, in full realization of our responsibility. We have been trained in the disciplines of democracy, and we shall be guided by the spirit of Woodrow Wilson whose noble ideals have laid a foundation upon which we intend to build a better and a safer world.

Dedication

To the new world which is being forged in the scorching flame of battle—

To us into whose hands will fall the responsibility for building a world free from the wrongs of the past—

To the fruition of the ideals of Woodrow Wilson who envisioned a future in which "every people should be left free to determine its own polity, its own way of development, unhindered, unthreatened, unafraid, the little along with the great and powerful."

It is a splendid thing to feel that the wholesome blood of a great country can be united in common purposes, and that by frankly looking one another in the face and taking counsel with one another, prejudices will drop away, handsome understandings will arise, a universal spirit of service will be engendered, and that with this increased sense of community of purpose will come a vastly enhanced individual power of achievement; for we will be lifted by the whole mass of which we constitute a part.

Scene from THE FIGHTING LITTLES

WOODROW WILSON PLAYERS

Each spring, tryouts select a cast for the annual three-act production of Wilson's dramatic organization, the Wilson Players. This year, instead of a single cast as in previous years, two casts were chosen to perform on two separate nights. This gave a greater opportunity for participation in the play.

This year's spring play, "The Fighting Littles," can certainly be said to be typically Tarkington. An adaptation of Tarkington's novel of the same name, it retains all the humor of the "terrible teens"—a world so deadly solemn from the inside, and so laughable and maddening from the outside—with the intense understanding of all human nature that have made the works of Booth Tarkington famous the world over.

Simply saying that the play is a comedy is being guilty of a gross understatement. To be sure, it has embodied all the qualities that made a Wilson audience laugh till its sides ached. But it is a great deal more than that. It is a real life story of a world that becomes incomprehensible almost immediately one leaves it—particularly to parents—most particularly to fathers—a world that only Booth Tarkington could recapture in all its tempestuous, humorous, and mystifying glory.

The play establishes the point that no drama in the world can be as real as the daily dramas that take place under comfortable roof-trees all across the continent, each day and every day, between nice parents and nice children who cannot see eye to eye. As for the family of the Littles portrayed with so much detachment, humor, and understanding by Mr. Tarkington, they certainly cannot be called tranquil people—but they can be called entertaining and exactly like ourselves.

COOLIDGE—6 — WILSON—0

Opening their inter-high schedule on their own field, the Tigers were beaten, 6-0, by a greatly improved Coolidge eleven. Dick Bergman, the Colts' driving back, sparked the team and, incidentally, plowed over for the score on a fourth down. O'Neill and Brewer headed the line and held back Coolidge's ground attack. The Colts gained only one-third as much as the Tigers on the ground, but they made up for it through the air.

WILSON—26 — CENTRAL—0

An impregnable forward wall and an irresistible backfield were all that the Tigers had to use against Central. The 26-0 score showed how effective that combination was. The Tigers went all-out against them to win their first inter-high game, and even some of the third-string boys played in the route. Four touchdowns and a safety accounted for the score, while no one was able to register an extra-point.

WILSON—0 — TECH—0

To make Wilson's inter-high rating stand at one win, one loss, and one tie, the McKinley eleven played them to a scoreless tie. During the first half, one might have thought it was Wilson's game, what with many Tiger drives not ending until they got inside of Tech's 10 yard line, but a combination of bad luck and no power kept the score null. The worst luck came when "Sleepy" Godfrey intercepted a last-minute

Tech pass on his own 35 and raced madly down the side-line toward the goal. The referee called him out-of-bounds on the McKinley 2 yard marker, and before the Tigers could start the next play, the whistle for the end of the half blew. The Wilson line play again sparkled and more than once held with their backs to the wall.

WILSON—12 — ROOSEVELT—0

Only once did the Roosevelt eleven cross the mid-stripe into the Tiger territory, and then they fumbled. Limiting their scoring to the second half, Wilson held the stubborn Riders with their backs to the wall. Tom Payne set up the first score by recovering a Roosevelt fumble. A series of tricky reverses and line plunges brought the Tigers within scoring range, and Godfrey shot a pass to Henry for the goal. The next touchdown was made when the Riders, trying desperately, threw a pass from their own 5 yard line. Bill Tanney intercepted it, and he stepped over into pay-dirt. No extra points were scored.

EASTERN—18 — WILSON—6

Beaten for the second time, the Wilson Tigers were rocked on their heels by English's passing attack. The second team in 5 games to even score on Wilson was the second team with good passers. Godfrey's aerials shone for the Tigers, but they too often found their way into Rambler hands. The only Wilson score was a flat pass to Brown who skirted the Eastern safety man for the goal. Henry and Brown did some fancy plowing while Godfrey's kicking and run-backs were tops.

WILSON—6 — WESTERN—0

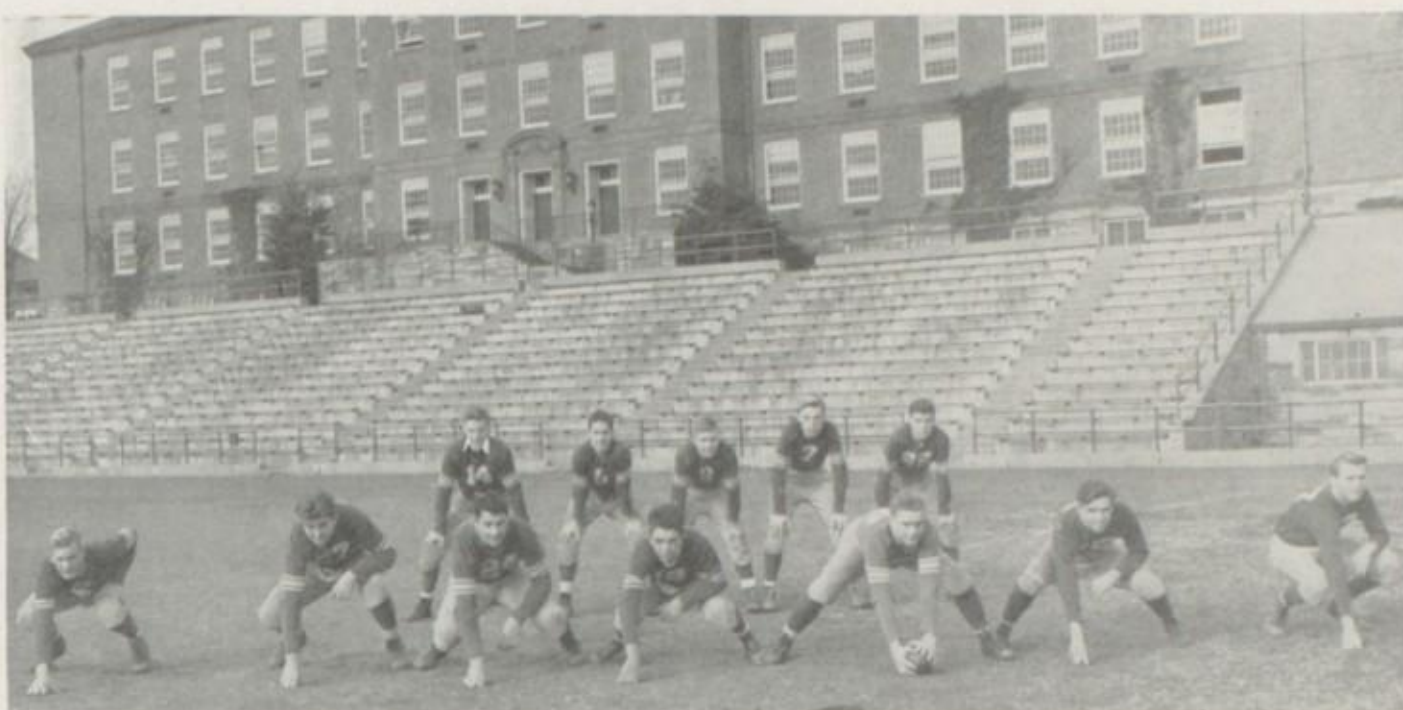

In their second "spot" game of the season, the Tigers downed Western for the second successive year. The game was a series of long drives and punting duels with the only score made from the Western 43 line. "Russ" Keith took a short pass from Haycock up to the 30 where he was hit hard and fumbled. Bob Henry, running interference, was there to take the bounding ball, and he continued his way toward the goal line without pausing. No extra points were made. The Raiders came their closest to retaliating in the early stages of the final period when they drove to the Tiger 16. Here, on the last down, Kidwell recovered a pass from Bell, thus gaining a first down. Luck was with the Tigers, however, as the referee called Bell within 5 yards of the line of scrimmage and Wilson took over. This victory clinched for Wilson third place in the interhigh series.

WILSON—12 — ANACOSTIA—0

Second place in the interhigh series was taken by the Tigers when they beat the Anacostia Indians, 12-0. This was rip-roaring, wide-open game, with 371 yards being gained by both teams. The Tigers totaled only 5 more than Anacostia, but theirs came in the right places. Haycock threw a 35 yard pass to "Russ" Keith for the first score, while "Stu" Brown charged through the Anacostia line for the second.

WILSON—46 — FAIRFAX—7

Forty-six points, the highest Wilson score ever, was rolled up when the Tigers crushed the lighter Fairfax eleven. "Stu" Brown's fifty yard kick-return gave the first score and started the ball rolling. Bill Haycock and Bob Henry also shared in the first-half limelight with a touchdown apiece. Tanney and Henry added the first extra points of the season to make the half-time score, 20-0. In the second half, Brown, Haycock, and Tanney crossed the double chalk line for the score, while Buddy Whittlesey and Bill Tanney picked up two more extra points. Fairfax's Bill Cummings made their only score by tearing 15 yards around end and then adding the extra point. The last Wilson score was made when Melvin Sandmeyer took a pass into pay-dirt.

FOOTBALL TEAM

Line: Phil Boesch, Tom Brewer, Mason Armstrong, Alan Fitch, John Murray, Gordon O'Neill, Bill Tanney.

Backfield: Russell Keith, Bill Haycock, Bob Henry, Stuart Brown, Pearce Godfrey.

WILSON—12 — TECH—6

By beating McKinley Tech, 12-6, the Tigers earned the playoff berth for the championship. Brown plowed through the Tech line for the first score, and a pass to Keith clicked for the second. In spite of the Tigers' amazing last-ditch defense, Emsweller finally swept around end for the lone Tech tally. Sandmeyer and Huff showed their stuff by breaking up many of the McKinley reverses, while O'Neill and Brewer held up the line. Haycock's intercepted passes also helped the Wilson cause immensely.

COOLIDGE—19 — WILSON—0

To win the interhigh crown, the Coolidge Colts took control of the situation and scored 19 points. It was no asset to the Wilson eleven that Gordon O'Neill, the Tiger captain was out sick. Greenbaum scored two of the Colts' touchdowns, and Cannon picked up the other. The extra point was booted by Vassinger.

VARSIITY BASKETBALL TEAM

Front row: Josh Dorsey, Bill Haycock, Russell Keith, Stuart Brown, Bill Case, Tom McLarney, Les Saunders.

Basketball

Wilson's basketball team started the season by losing to George Washington High, and that was exactly how the boys ended their schedule. In between these two defeats, however, the Tigers piled up ten victories against two losses.

On December 14, the Green and White lost the opening game to G. W. High by a 21-18 count. The interhigh schedule began on January 8 when Mike Pappafotis, Eastern's colorful little guard, calmly sank a free throw in the final seconds of the game to give the Lincoln Parkers a 29-28 victory over Wilson. But the Tigers went on from there to capture nine consecutive titles.

Wilson got the winning streak when they took Montgomery Blair into camp by a 44-18 score. This game was high-lighted by Stu Brown's performance of totaling 19 markers—more than the entire Blair quint was able to register. Four days later, the Tigers were almost upset by an under-dog but determined Central five; Wilson finally took the game with a score of 27-25. On January 18, the Tigers routed Saint Albans by a 40-21 score.

January 21 saw one of the roughest games in the interhigh series, as Wilson downed Tech's Maroons with a 39-26 score. A week later, the Tigers took Coolidge, the only team to beat Eastern in interhigh play, by a 27-25 count. In this game, Stu Brown accounted for the second highest individual score of the high school series when he hung up 17 points. On February 5, Wilson took a 32-25 game from Western's Red Raiders. Three days later, Roosevelt fell victim to the "hot" Tiger quint by a 21-18 score. In this tilt, over 40 fouls were called, with the Rough Riders gaining 12 of their 18 points from the foul line.

On February 11, the Tigers ended regular interhigh play by polishing off Anacostia to a 45-22 tune. Thus Wilson wound up the high school schedule tied with Eastern for first place; both teams had won six games and dropped one. The Green and White revenged their previous loss to George Washington by taking a thrilling 33-32 battle on February 16. This concluded the Tigers' regular season.

In post season playoffs, Wilson didn't fare as well, losing two out of three contests. The Tigers' nine-game winning streak was snapped on February 18, when Tech upset the Green and White in the semi-final of the high school tournament by a 28-19 count. The nine points by which the Trainers won this tilt represented the greatest margin by which the Tigers were defeated this season.

For the first time, Wilson participated in the Metropolitan Tournament, sponsored by the Evening Star. The Tigers drew Gonzaga by a 35-18 count, much to the surprise of the experts who rated both teams even. The Tigers' most exciting game came as the semi-final of the tournament when Wilson met G. W. High for the third time on February 25. After coming up from a 44-38 deficit to a 44-44 tie as the first overtime period was rapidly closing, the Tigers had their hopes of victory dashed when Joe Hensley, the Generals' star center, sank a layup shot mere seconds ahead of the final whistle. Thus G. W. won the contest, 46-44.

In 14 games, the Tigers amassed 452 points for a 32.29 average, while their opponents were only able to collect 354 markers and a 25.29 average. In inter-high games, the Tigers totaled 238 tallies and averaged 29.75 points per contest as compared with the 198 markers and 24.7 average gathered by their opponents. Stu Brown took individual scoring honors, and was followed by Bill Case and Tom McLarney.

Mr. Kupka has done an excellent job in fitting the boys into an aggressive and smooth-working team which has been held in high esteem by basketball fans throughout the city.

Junior Varsity Basketball

Chuck Boehne, Wilson's first student-coach, guided the junior varsity basketball team to two victories in seven games. Although this record is not too impressive, the boys gained much valuable experience in team play.

Monte Morgan, with 43 points to his credit, was high-scorer, while Lefty Schaub was runnerup with 29 markers. Bob Hogue, Maynard Fones and Bob Leonard rounded out the first team. Other boys on the squad included Frank Daley, Art Scribner, Alan Fitch, Dave Hildreth, Dick Hildreth and Judson Hulsey.

JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL RECORD

Junior Varsity Basketball Record

The Jayvees totaled 215 points in their seven games for a 30.7 average per game, while the opposition did a trifle better, registering 236 tallies and an average of 33.7 markers a contest.

BASEBALL SQUAD

Baseball

Wilson's 1944 baseball team opened the season with five lettermen in Stu Brown, Tom McLarney, Bill Torrey, Bill Tanney and Bill Haycock, who formed the nucleus of the nine. Several other members of the team have had some experience, and Coach Willard Bristor has plenty of competent boys at his disposal.

Stu Brown, Josh Dorsey, who was on last year's team, Dick Knapp, Martin Fain and Bob Waller rounded out the pitching staff, while the catching was handled by Tom McLarney and Pearce Godfrey. Bill Torrey, Bill Tanney, Jack Hodes, Melvin Sandmeyer and Chuck Boehne took care of the infield duties, and Bill Haycock, Bill Newhauser, Bob Henry and Alan Fitch shouldered the outfield responsibilities.

Track

Six lettermen and nine experienced boys from last year's champion track team are among those working out daily under Coach Ed Smeltzer's direction.

Rusty Keith, Dean McKinnon and Lee Roberts are sprinters from last season's squad, while Bill Ewing, Jack O'Brien and Jimmy Vail have also shown up well in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Lettermen Eddie Beck, Walt Spangenberg and Art Williams run the quarter-mile, as does Jimmy Young, a holdover from last year. Ted Spandou, a letterman, Jim Ruddell, from the '43 team, Jimmy Graham and Bob Hoyt are in the half-mile. The milers include Dick Gregory, Bill Reed and Max Vogel, who all were on last year's squad, and newcomers Norman Forrest and Chuck Behrens. Letterman Les Sanders does the hurdling, and is also a broad jumper.

Johnny Colvin, who won his "W" last spring, and Dick Gregory round out the broad jumping corps, while Johnny, Bill Case and Billy Crouch handle the high jump. Bill, Johnny, and Lewis Jamison, from last year's team, are the pole vaulters, with Bill and Roger Blatter throwing the shot put and discus.

Six meets are on the 'Tigers' schedule, including the annual "C" Club and Inter-High gatherings, and the Woodrow Wilson Metropolitan meet, which is sponsored by Wilson for the first time, and which will be an annual affair.

Baseball Tournament

The start of the basketball tournament is always anticipated by Wilson girls. This year two hundred and fifty girls turned out, and were organized into twenty-six teams.

The players utilized the skills and techniques they had learned in gym classes, and the result was great improvements in team work and individual skill. Two members of the W. W. A. C. were appointed managers of this tournament. They were Betty Powers and Nancy Collins, who were responsible for the smooth running organization which made all participants remember with enjoyment the basketball season of 1944.

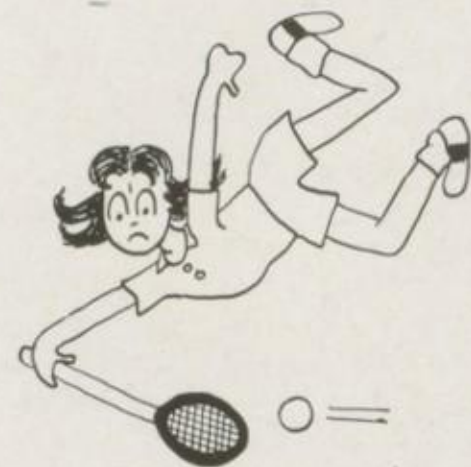

JUNIOR-SENIOR BASKETBALL GROUP

FALL TENNIS GROUP

Fall Tennis Tournament

The announcement that there would be a singles tournament in the fall of 1943, was received with great interest by many girls. Although there were several delays because of bad weather, the tournament was finished by the beginning of November. The games were played at the Friends and Lafayette courts. The winner, Connie Little, received a letter.

Volleyball

In the spring, one of the most popular sports is volleyball, with about 150 contestants. Much teamwork is required along with the skills which were practiced previously. The outstanding players received emblems.

MISSING IN ACTION

EDWARD FISHER KRISE

1924-

Class of June, 1942

What gives men like these peculiar distinction is not merely that they did their duty, but that their duty had nothing to do with them or their own personal and peculiar interests. They did not give their lives for themselves. They gave their lives for us, because we called upon them as a Nation to perform an unexpected duty. That is the way in which men grow distinguished, and that is the only way, by serving somebody else than themselves. And what greater thing could you serve than a Nation such as this we love and are proud of?

WOODROW WILSON

In the Firmament of Memory

Brooklyn Navy Yard

May 11, 1914

There is this peculiar distinction belonging to the soldier, that he goes into an enterprise out of which he himself cannot get anything at all. He is giving everything that he hath, even his life, in order that others may live, not in order that he himself may obtain gain and prosperity. And just as soon as the tasks of peace are performed with the same spirit of self sacrifice and devotion . . . the very organization and spirit of society will be a guarantee of peace.

WOODROW WILSON
Memorial Day Address
May 30, 1914

The last of March Mr. Lynch left Wilson to join the Navy. Wilson students and teachers alike tried to show their gratitude for his many services. He had been a friend to all; no detail was deemed too small, no job too large for his attention.

Mr. Lynch had been at Wilson since it was founded. The well-kept grounds and neat building are the result of his conscientious care. He made Woodrow Wilson High School a school to be proud of and to be admired.

We shall miss Mr. Lynch, but we are sure that he will do as fine a job in the Navy as the one he has done here at Woodrow Wilson.

The way to be patriotic in America is not only to love America but to love the duty that lies nearest to our hand and know that in performing it we are serving our country.

A Senior's Recalcitration To Burke's Conciliation

Have you read that great oration
That is full of agitation
For a quick conciliation
Just between the English nation
And its chief colonization?
At the teacher's invitation
Students start with trepidation
To peruse this declamation.
First Burke states the situation,
Then with faulty calculation
Gives some boring information
On colonial population
And the trade's evaluation.
After this preoccupation
Comes the student's ruination.
He must face, with palpitation
Celia's first examination.
Gad! It's sure extermination!
After this comes affirmation
Of Burke's two-fold declaration
Followed by the presentation
Of his plan for just taxation
Coupled with representation.
Finally comes the refutation,
And, at last, the Peroration!
Ah, the God-sent liberation
From this killeroo narration
Brings a true transfiguration
From our former consternation
To restful obliviation.
Far more suiting to our station.

NOW

Before I close this incantation
Let me make this dedication;
"I've heart-felt recalcitration
For E. Burke's 'Conciliation.' "

—VAL JEAN

The Song of the Yearbook

(with apologies to Thomas Hood)

With hearts that are heavy and sad,
With wits that go wandering about,
The Yearbook Staff in a small, dark room
Is getting the Yearbook out.
Work! Work! Work!
Our thoughts are feeble and few,
And even at night in our fitful dreams
There's always more work to do.

Work! Work! Work!
Long after the evening bell,
Work! Work! Work!
As lost souls work in Hell.
Captions, pictures, and clubs,
Payments, oft overdue.
And still we hear as we struggle along,
"There's plenty of work to do."

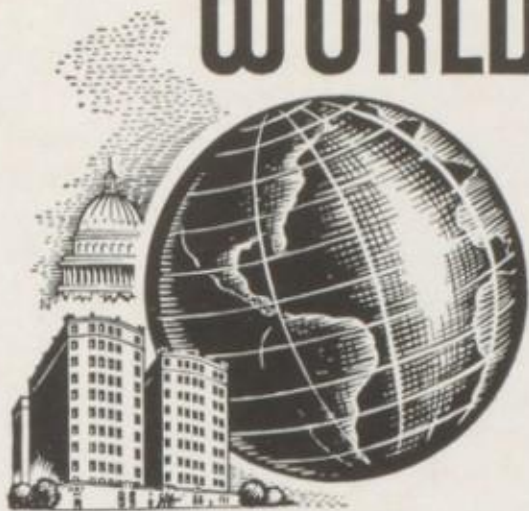

The biographies, are they all in?
The pictures, have they been made?
Do the things match up? are they alphabetized?
Do you wonder that we are afraid?
And it's Oh, to be a slave
To a harsh and barbarous Turk!
To a high school girl, his rule seems kind
Compared to this heavy work.

Just but for one short hour,
To join them in the gym;
The carefree girls at basketball,
With figures straight and slim.
For as we crouch above our desks,
We scribble, erase, rewrite.
Our shoulders are bent, our eyes are dim,
In short, we are a sight.

But some time a day will dawn,
The sun will be shining fair,
The copy all in, the Book will be out,
Vacation will be in the air.
And all of our work will be done,
And all of our tears dried away,
And Nature will sing, and we'll join in the song,
"Oh, what a beautiful day."

The School Cafeteria

The school cafeteria is indeed a Grand Central Station on a much smaller scale. The atmosphere of rush, excitement, and anxiety is there, yes, but as yet, the pitiful farewells have not descended on Wilson's cafeteria. It's amazing the many characters (and I'm not kidding) who can be found in what the teachers prophetically term the "students' cafeteria."

For instance, there is Peter, the beater. Now Peter, as soon as the bell sounds, makes a mad drive for the "line," get his place, takes a stance, and waits impatiently, until he can spot his chance handout. Once burdened with victuals, he forks over the dough and spurts for his choice parking lot.

Then there's Polly, the pitiful leanie, who looks around for the heavy caloric dishes, such as the ever-present spaghetti and cheese and the filling potato salad. Right through the starches she ploughs, thence to the candy counter and then stuffs away a dixie cup and pie. Of course, Pattie, the fattie, heaves a deep sigh and with an "Oh, well," buys practically everything off her list. But then, she'll "start her diet tomorrow."

Once in a while Bettie the Bookworm saunters in, drools down the counter, selects a sack of potato chips, and settles down—content with food for the brain.

Here come the Blunderbusses. Nothing is safe from them.—milk bottles fly like confetti and a bowl of soup is just something to be tipped over. They get their sleeves in the butter, their elbows in the mayonnaise and things slide off their trays as if possessed by some evil genius.

Finally there are the scandal mongers. Between bites they spread the latest dirt, true or otherwise, and tear up people as long as time permits.

Ho Hum! There's the bell again. Lunch is over.

I. FISH

Today I make this simple wish,
Never again do I want to eat fish.
After working all day with nothing since breakfast but a bite
I have an enormous appetite.
My stomach has an awful ache
For a nice, thick, juicy piece of steak.
The dinner's brought in on a covered dish,
And what do you think it is—fish!
Once again I'm left in the lurch,
As I gaze upon a pulchritudinous perch.
I don't care if it's salmon or blowfish,
My favorite kind of fish is no fish.
To thoughts of mackerel or bluefish
I remain unmoved, cold, and aloofish.
I much prefer seeing codfish and basses
Being cut up in biology classes.

II. THE BEAVER

The beaver has become illustrious
By his being constantly industrious.
But today a different tale I tell,
So gather 'round, and listen well.

There once was a beaver with fine, silky hair
Who spent nights and days playing solitaire.
He said he was as innocent as a young lamb
So why should he spend his life damming a dam?

Now all of his friends said to him, "Have a care.
"You shouldn't spend your time playing solitaire.
"You should work and be a busy beaver,
"Your tooth is a saw and your tail is a lever."

No attention to them did our beaver friend pay,
But went on with his game, so careless and gay;
'Till one day it happened, and so very quick—
And you'll now find our beaver downtown with Zlotnick.

III. THE APE

The Ape's a Primate—it is true
That he's as smart as some of you.
He swings from trees with his powerful grip,
And helps out Tarzan in the comic strip.
Some apes are big, and some are littler,
But the dumbest ones are Tojo and Hitler.

IV. THE TURTLE

The turtle lives 'twixt plated decks,
Which practically conceal its sex.
Its structure's different from that of man,
Because it is amphibian.
When shell is thick, the turtle's happy,
When it is thin, the turtle's snappy.
There's one good thing about the turtle,
It doesn't have to wear a gurtle.

V. THE HORSE

The horse is a beautiful animal, indeed—
What is so noble as a noble steed?
It can move around in three different gaits,
And belongs to the order of Ungulates.
The horse is important in history, we're told,
They didn't have busses when knights were bold,
The cavalry always rode into the battle,
General Sherman directed his troops from the saddle.
As a sport horseback riding is just simply grand—
You ride for an hour; for the next week you stand.

The Time Has Come

"The time has come," the Walrus said, "to talk of many things . . ." Under the classification of "things," come lockers. The purpose of lockers, I have been told, is to hold the hat and coat of a student while he is attending class, but this malicious rumor must be totally ignored or, at best, favored with a cursory smile. In reality, lockers do no such thing. After school one day, as I was picking my coat off the floor of the Yearbook Office, I decided to investigate the small cubicle which I share with three others. A strong individual, fortified by P.E. classes and soup from the cafeteria might have been able to withstand the deluge of items from my locker. However, I was in a weakened condition from too many crayfish in biology class. (I didn't realize that we weren't supposed to eat them until it was too late.) As I picked myself up from the floor, I had two alternatives: the first, scream for a wrecking crew and see if the janitor could, in a week or so, clear a large enough path through the debris to let students pass; the second, prompted by my detective instincts and intellectual curiosity, was to remain and see if I could find anything worthwhile. I yielded to the latter alternative. (Escape from under the pile was impossible.) Here is a list of what I found:

One dead alligator (Preserved in something or other in order to show the workings of the digestive system.)

Four unmailed letters

One pair of shorts (size 44)

One shirt (size 9)

12 old paper bags

One decayed orange

4 coats (2 male and 2 female—owners unknown)

One basketball

One rubber boot

One-half a Cicero pony

Notes (Three "Please excuse Ruth for her absence on Friday" all in different handwriting, four skip slips, two bus slips, one library permit)

Four pictures of Frank Sinatra

One bobby pin.

The moral of this sad tale is: Never open your locker. If, however, it must be opened, the safest way is to dynamite.

Here We Go Again

The only reason I don't like Sunday,
Is because the next day's always Monday.
On Monday my life becomes grotesque,
Again I must face my chewing-gummed desk.
Week-end blisses all must vanish,
As I plow into my Spanish.
Wednesday, Friday, even Thursday,
Monday really is the worsday.
After fun with beaux and buddies
Comes a test in social studies.
The leisure's over; play is done—
We start on schedule Number One.

EMILY

When You Were Very Small

Did you ever see a cow?
Did you ever wonder how,
Since all she ever ate was grass
She made the milk that's in your glass?
If you ever saw her grazing,
Did you not think it amazing?
Stop to ask your mother how
Milk is made by every cow?
Your mother probably didn't know
How to explain it to you, so
She explained to you instead,
About the butter on your bread.
And it was there that you first learned
That milk is butter, when it's churned.
And cheese is just about the same,
Except it has a different name.
But now before I say adieu
I wish to leave this thought with you:
Although a cow will fill the bill,
I would rather have a still.

Exploding The Myth of Racial Supremacy

Teachers Are Human

The views expressed in this article are the pen's own and not necessarily those of the author.

The question "Are Teachers Human" has long been a subject of heated and fiery debate. It is therefore only after careful scientific observation that I present the following report.

A carefully fostered legend has developed to the effect that teachers are an ageless race, bred in the laps of the Gods and put on earth to render judgment upon our ignorance and sins. To elucidate further, it is claimed that teachers are creatures gifted with infallible memories, superior knowledge, Delphic wisdom, instant and miraculous judgment, and a sixth sense to detect the evil doer.

It is presumed from outward appearances that teachers function even as do we. (They carry on processes of digestion, circulation, respiration, and so forth.) Some scientists claim that the reason that mankind is superior to the animal is that members of the human race have thumbs. Observation will tell you that a preponderance of teachers have thumbs.

As to their mental capacities, we find numerous instances to disprove the ancient myth that teachers are all-wise. We find that they may be so deficient that they even forget what assignments they have given us. The sixth-sense theory is blasted by the fact that teachers fail to detect forged bookslips, library permits, and use of ponies during tests. And is it good judgment to assign such homework?

Even emotionally, we discover that teachers are completely mortal. They become excited on certain occasions. They have certain likes and dislikes, and they do not fail to make these preferences quite obvious.

Another noticeable fact is that teachers are usually different people outside of those dens of iniquity that they call classrooms. Women teachers take pleasure in looking nice, and men teachers take pleasure in looking. Occasionally we even find that teachers can laugh—it must, however, be admitted that this type is most rare.

All in all, it must be conceded that teachers can be pretty okay . . .

Last night the wind tore thru the trees,
We slept in flannel B.V.D.'s.
Today we see a change appear—
The winter's o'er; the spring is here.

Come on you buds! March twenty-first
Means spring is here and time to burst.
Come on you flowers, start a-growing,
You mild spring breezes, start a-blowing.

What if the ground is bare and dry?
What if the snow falls from the sky?
No flowers spread their propagation?
No bears come from their hibernation?

What if we still have winter sneezes?
If we retain our anti-freezes?
It's time for youth to love and sing,
The calendar has said it's spring.

So go on poets, compose your sonnets,
And ladies, buy your new spring bonnets.
Go frisk, you lambs, and lovers sigh,
(But do not let the furnace die.)

Last night the North Wind whistled strong,
We kept the oil on all night long.
Today a brand new life will bring,
Because today's the start of spring.

Pyne's "Conciliation with the Draftboard"

I hope, Sir, that notwithstanding the austerity of the Board, your good nature will incline you to some degree of consideration toward my case. As I came into the Draft Board, full of anxiety about the event of my deferment, I found to my infinite surprise that I might not get it and be classified 1-A. I do confess I could not help looking on this as an unfortunate omen. You are, therefore, called upon to attend to my case.

2. Surely it is an awful matter, or there is none so on this side of the grave. When I first had the honor to be eligible for the selective service, this question was very important to me.

3. My proposition is deferment. Not to get in the Army; not to get in the Navy; not to get in the Armed Forces at all. It is a simple deferment: just an ordinary 4-F; not flat feet; not a punctured eardrum; just anything simple enough to defer me.

4. The plan which I shall presume to suggest derives, however, one great advantage from the proposition of that noble general's project. It will keep me out of the Army.

5. The capital leading questions on which you must this day decide, are these two: First, whether I shall be 1-A or 4-F; and secondly, duh-h-h, I had another one but I can't think of it now.

6. The first thing we have to consider with regard to the nature of the object is the number of people in the Army and Navy. I have not taken a good deal of pains on that point, but I shall attempt to make a guess.

7. There are approximately 130,000,001 men and women in the Army or Navy, besides 500 others. This, Sir, is nowhere near the correct number but there are quite a few. There is an occasion to exaggerate where the plain truth is of no weight or importance at all.

8. While we spend our time in deliberating on how I shall be deferred from the draft, we shall find more are being inducted.

9. I have in my hand two accounts; one, the number of men in the Army and Navy; the other the number sent across the water in the last three years of the war. The sources from which these came are noted for their exaggeration and are not worth mentioning, so I will not take up your valuable time enumerating them.

10. The number of men and women in the Army and Navy, taken at the beginning of the year, that is, in the month of January, stood thus

Men	65,000,000
Women	64,999,999
Total	129,999,999
Others	501

11. In the month of January, 1944, the number of men and women in uniform sent across, is as follows:

Men	(censored)
Women	(censored)
Others	500

(wouldn't you like to know)

12. This number, may I remind you, Sir, has increased no less than thirteen fold.
13. Excuse me, Sir, if turning from such thoughts I resume this comparative view once more. You have seen it on a large scale; look at on a small one.
14. In the province of Tralala, La., there were twelve times as many men inducted in this war as there were in World War I. Yes, twenty-four men, Sir, twenty-four men of Tralala, La., are in the uniform of their country.
15. I have four major objections to the draft.
16. First, Sir, permit me to observe that the draft is temporary. I shall be inducted into the Army only to be discharged again after the war. Seems useless, doesn't it?
17. My next objection is uncertainty. I am so worried about my classification that I am gradually becoming a physical wreck as well as mentally unbalanced.
18. A further objection to the draft is that you impair the object by your very endeavors to keep it in suspense.
19. Therefore, I think that my plan of deferment is much superior to that of the noble generals.
20. Men are what make the draft, not the names by which it is called. The march of the tired soldier is slow.
21. Consulting the local newspapers, I have found three capital examples in a similar case before me; those of Frank Sinatra, Sammy Baugh, and Frank Sinkwich.
22. Frank Sinatra, before his deferment was just an ordinary 1-A, but it was the American women, not the American Army, that got Sinatra.
23. My next example is Sammy Baugh. Although he is one of the best players on the Washington Redskins, he was not good enough to get into the Army.
24. Frank Sinkwich, the star back for University of Georgia, was rejected from the marines and the draft to again play football, this time for the Detroit Lions. How am I to get into an organization that rejects such men as these?
25. My resolutions, therefore, mean to keep me out of the draft. I think these four massive pillars will be of strength to support the building of the United States Senate.
26. My first resolution is:
That the Army has too many men now.
27. Second:
So has the Navy.
29. Third:
So have the Marines.
30. Fourth:
I don't want to be drafted.
31. Here, Sir, I should close, and I think I will.
